

The studies conducted give prime focus on conserving non-renewable resources through wise management and exploiting the options of various alternatives and renewable energy and natural resources with the support of efficient energy harvesting technologies.